

Dr. Tan Returns to Austin in 2006 for Advanced Classes!

Schedule:

Friday, November 3, 2006 – Leslie Myers

Ethics for Acupuncturists

Saturday, November 4 2006 - Dr. Tan

Advanced Balance Method: Balancing the 8 Extra Meridians

This course expands on the I-Ching theory which forms the foundation for all systems of the Balance Method. The points of the Eight Extraordinary meridians are discussed in relation to Dr. Tan's systems of the Balance Method. Dr. Tan will explain how he incorporates the Eight extra meridians to increase the effectiveness of his treatments. He will discuss how to create effective treatments using the yin/yang balancing dynamic along with the traditional confluent points of the Eight Extras. Combining these meridians with Balance Method theory allows participants access to more powerful and expanded clinical treatments.

Dr. Tan will discuss case studies that are best-suited to treatment using the Eight Extra meridians, as well as possible contraindications for use of these meridians. As always, Dr. Tan will demonstrate the effectiveness of the treatments through practical demonstrations.

Sunday, November 5, 2006 – Dr. Tan

Advanced Balance Method – Balancing the Five Elements

Dr. Tan combines the theories behind two effective acupuncture systems: Five Element Acupuncture and the Balance Method. He explains which elements are associated with specific hexagrams of the I Ching. Then, he explains how to balance these hexagrams by using the Balance Method. Advanced concepts of tonification and sedation will be discussed. Likewise, Dr. Tan will explain how these concepts can be applied to stubborn cases of stagnation. He will discuss case studies from his own clinic and provide hands-on demonstration.

The Basic Balance Method training (or understanding of Dr. Tan's books) is a prerequisite for these courses.
